We take great pleasure in offering the fourth volume of ‘Heritage’, the academic journal of Bethune College, Kolkata, for the perusal of our esteemed readers. As the name suggests, this journal represents an attempt to hold up the glorious tradition of our college. At the same time, topics of current academic interest have also been included, thereby enriching the heritage for future generations. This volume contains twenty-seven articles on topics ranging from Humanities’, Social sciences, Science to Liberal Arts.

This volume highlights the importance of active, advanced individual research, as well as the need for upgrading teaching levels and course material at undergraduate and post-graduate levels. Bethune College encourages and promotes collaborative research for the benefit of both teachers and students and this is reflected in some of the work presented in this volume.

We express our gratitude to all scholars and academicians who have contributed to this issue of ‘Heritage’: Sm. Tanwi Mukhopadhyay, Sm. Anindita Datta, Sm. Kumkum Chattopadhyay, Sm. Arpita Dey, Sm.
